1. For your information [ ] fears the possibility of KMWAAHOO use of poisons in connection with any of the foodstuffs which are delivered, and for this reason FERVOR has eliminated all foodstuffs from their preparations of article scattering.

2. FERVOR did at one time contemplate the inclusion of boiled sweets and barley sugar. These, however, have now been left out, and their preparations are confined to such things as soap, socks, mending wool, needles, razor blades, and so forth. [ ] personally feels that any form of seeds, or cereals, may be liable to contamination. On the other hand, having seen a sample of HTCURIO flour bags it should be moderately easy for the recipients to determine whether the bags have been tampered with unless KMWAAHOO authorities indulge in more scientific methods, i.e., the use of a hypodermic syringe, and so forth.

3. [ ] would like to convey his disappointment that FERVOR's supply drops are taking such a time to get going. He is beginning to think that they may be attempting to be too particular, for their scheme at the moment involves not only the supply of approximately 100,000 articles, but also their neutral wrappings, and the production of special polythene envelopes in which to contain them. As each envelope also carries a message from HTNEIGH, these have to be packed with security precaution, and the magnitude of the task involved can well be imagined.

4. [ ] would
